3. SUMMARY OF SIGNIFICANT ACCOUNTING POLICIES*3.1. Cash and cash equivalents

Cash and cash equivalents comprise cash on hand, cash at bank, and short-term investments with an original maturity of not more than three months, that are readily convertible into known amounts of cash and are subject to an insignificant risk of changes in value.

The classification of cash equivalents is determined based on the nature of the investment, the purpose of holding and the convertibility at the reporting date, taking into account any restrictions on use (if any) to ensure appropriate presentation of the Company's financial position.

3.2. InventoriesInventory properties*

Property acquired or being constructed for sale in the ordinary course of business, rather than to be held for rental or capital appreciation, is held as inventory property and is measured at the lower of cost and net realisable value.

Cost includes:

- Freehold and leasehold rights for land;
- Amounts paid to contractors for construction; and
- Borrowing costs, planning and design costs, costs of site preparation, professional fees for legal services, property transfer taxes, construction overheads and other related costs.

Net realisable value is the estimated selling price in the ordinary course of the business, based on market prices at the reporting date and discounted for the time value of money if material, less costs to completion and the estimated costs of sale.

The determination of estimated selling price and related costs is based on available market information, recent transactions, the Company's sales policies and market supply-demand conditions.

The cost of inventory property recognised in profit or loss on disposal is determined with reference to the specific costs incurred on the property sold and an allocation of any non-specific costs based on the relative size of the property sold.

Other inventories

Inventories are stated at the lower of cost incurred in bringing each product to its present location and condition, and net realisable value.

Net realisable value represents the estimated selling price in the ordinary course of business less the estimated costs to complete and the estimated costs necessary to make the sale.

The perpetual method is used to record inventories, which are valued as follows:

- |                    |   |   |
|--------------------|---|---|
| Merchandise        | - | cost of purchase on a specific identification basis |
| Tools and supplies | - | cost of purchase on a weighted average basis        |

An inventory provision is created for the estimated loss arising due to the impairment of value (through diminution, damage, obsolescence, etc.) of inventories based on appropriate evidence of impairment available at the balance sheet date.

The provision is determined based on assessment of each project or product, taking into account legal status, project progress, sales capability and market conditions at the reporting date.

Increases or decreases to the provision balance are recorded into the cost of goods sold account in the separate income statement.

3.3. Receivables

Receivables are presented in the separate financial statements at the carrying amounts due from customers and other debtors, after the provision for doubtful debts.

When tangible fixed assets are sold or retired, any gain or loss resulting from their disposal (the difference between the net disposal proceeds and the carrying amount) is included in the separate income statement.

The Company reviews indicators of impairment at each reporting date and recognises impairment losses where applicable.

3.5. Intangible fixed assets

Intangible fixed assets are stated at cost less accumulated amortisation.

The cost of an intangible fixed asset comprises its purchase price and any directly attributable costs of preparing the intangible fixed asset for its intended use.

of the deferred tax asset to be utilised. Previously unrecognised deferred tax assets are re-assessed at each balance sheet date and are recognised to the extent that it has become probable that future taxable profit will allow the deferred tax assets to be recovered.

Deferred tax assets and liabilities are measured at the tax rates that are expected to apply in the year when the asset is realised or the liability is settled based on tax rates and tax laws that have been enacted at the balance sheet date.

Deferred tax is charged or credited to the separate income statement, except when it relates to items recognised directly to equity, in which case the deferred tax is also dealt with in the equity account.

Deferred tax assets and liabilities are offset when there is a legally enforceable right for the Company to offset current tax assets against current tax liabilities and when they relate to income taxes levied by the same taxation authority on the same taxable entity or when the Company intends either to settle current tax liabilities and assets on a net basis or to realise the assets and settle the liabilities simultaneously, in each future year in which significant amounts of deferred tax liabilities or assets are expected to be settled or recovered.
